Republican Body in Session Pledges Support to All Returned Men.

Dallas, Tex., Nov. 13.—Approximately 200 leading business men from all sections of Texas attended the meeting of the Texas Republican council at the chamber of commerce here today, and adopted resolutions urging returned soldiers to make races for the various state offices and pledged the support of the Republican party to their candidacy.

The meeting also passed a resolution urging all citizens to pay their poll tax and stay away from the July Democratic primaries and withhold final judgment of political issues and candidates until the general November election.

The convention adopted a reclamation of principles which declares allegiance to the constitution of the United States; opposes government ownership of public utilities and asks for a speedy return of the railroads to their private owners; recognizes the right of labor engaged in private industry to organize and its right to secure employment at its will but opposes the unionization of national, state or municipal government, and favors the open shop system; opposes strikes among those engaged in operation of public utilities; condemns

ATLANTA WOMAN IS PRAISING IT

Mrs. J. D. Morrow says Tangle has ended all her troubles.

"Tangle has ended my troubles and I believe I am a well woman again," said Mrs. J. D. Morrow, of 124 Brown street, Atlanta, Ga., in telling of her wonderful restoration to health.

"I had suffered for quite a spell," she continued, "with nervous headache and back pain in my back and in the region of my kidneys. My appetite failed and my sleep was restless. I also suffered from shortness of breath and lost considerable weight and was getting weaker every day, so that I became very dependent on my friends."

"So many Atlanta people were taking Tangle with such wonderful results that I decided to try it. And it helped me right from the start. My appetite picked up, I could sleep better and didn't have a pain of any kind about me. I have gained twenty pounds and feel so well and strong that I am now doing all my household work besides looking after my little ones. I think so much of Tangle that I shall always have a bottle of this medicine in my house from now on."

Second Liberty Bonds Should Be Exchanged

Word Received Here Regarding Status of Temporary Forms of Paper.

The El Paso branch bank of the 11th federal reserve bank of Dallas, Texas, is in receipt of a telegram from R. L. Van Zandt, governor of the bank at Dallas, saying that the 4 percent coupon bonds of the second Liberty loan which were issued in temporary form like other four percent and 4 1/2 percent coupon Liberty bonds, have no interest coupon attached for interest payable after November 15, 1919, and will therefore become exchangeable for permanent bonds with all subsequent coupons attached.

Early or late exchange of the bonds, the governor of the bank says should proceed them for exchange. In the meantime, it is pointed out, the temporary four percent coupon bonds will be regarded as good securities in the market.

anarchy and Bolshevism; takes the president seriously to task for his Quakerism in appointing Morley, Wood and other alleged conspirators against the government; asks a more rigid test for citizenship in order to keep undesirable out of the country; condemns the Mexican policy of the national administration; urges the repeal of the Tamm law; asks legislation to distribute the cost of the war over a period of years; demands honor and efficiency in government; suggests another strong political party as a cure for present political ills in Texas; asks that Texas educational institutions be taken out of politics; the resolutions to the peace treaty as adopted by the United States; favors a high protective tariff and declares that government and the Republican party in Texas should continue in the hands of whites.

SHEEP MEN ARE PROSPERITY

Condition in Southwest was Divided Evenly Among Stockmen and Farmers.

Flagstaff, Ariz., Nov. 13.—The wool growers of Arizona have participated in the general prosperity that has come to the stockmen and farmers of the southwest. They insist, however, that their lot has not been one of undue profit taking. There is first denial of the generally accepted idea that their ewe bands return 100 percent of lambs. On their entire holdings of matured sheep, the average is declared much nearer to percent. Herders get twice as much as they formerly did. Shearing, which was 7 cents a head a few years ago, this season has cost from 11 to 13 cents, with power clipping.

Sheep owners in northern Arizona fear that very soon they will be cut out from their winter and spring feeding and lambing grounds to the southward, for the state land department is selling and leasing thousands of acres, for farming and grazing. Right across their drive roads, which barbed wire fencing soon may make passage difficult. Even the southern plains are being homesteaded or stripped. There is fear of free trade that will allow flooding the market with Australian and Argentine wools.

Forest reserve officials believe the wool growers have no particular reason for their gloomy foreboding. It is pointed out that the northern Arizona reserves can hardly be used for anything but grazing and that the reserve administration sees no reason why there should not be continuation of the present policy of allowing land for grazing at the rate of about 7 acres to the sheep and 25 acres to the cow.

Italy Is Powerless To Prevent Desertions From Regular Army

Rome, Italy, Nov. 13.—(By the Associated Press.)—Desertions from the regular Italian forces to the troops commanded by Capt. Gabriele d'Annunzio apparently cannot be prevented by the Italian government, and recent events appear to justify the belief that the regular forces will be loyal in the event of a revolution.

MOVIE ACTRESSES AND THEIR HAIR

Did it ever occur to you that every movie actress you have seen has lovely hair, while the most popular count their curls as their chief asset? To fasten curly hair on ladies just because of their attractive looks, inquiry among them discloses the fact that they bring out all the natural beauty of their hair by careful shampooing, not with any soap or substance, but with a simple mixture by setting a teaspoonful of catnip (which they get from the druggist) in a cup of water and applying the mixture instead of soap. This full cup of shampoo liquid is enough so it is easy to apply it to the head. After it is set, the hair dries rapidly with uniform color, lustrous, excess oil and dirt are dissolved from scalp and hair. The hair is so fluffy that it looks much heavier than it is. It is faster and softer are delightful.—A.S.V.

A Meeting To Help Sick Ex-Service Men

El Pasoans to Meet in Court Room This Evening at 7:30 O'clock.

"I trust the meeting this evening at 7:30 in the court room in the courthouse will be well attended," said Judge J. M. Goggin, Tuesday morning.

"Members of the draft board in El Paso county, as elsewhere in the state, have been called into action again. Their resurrection was made possible by a touching appeal by Maj. John C. Towne, Jr., formerly in charge of the selective draft in Texas, who is now leading the campaign for the assembly of a fund of $50,000 to build hospitals at Carlisle, Pa., to take care of the more than 4000 Texas soldiers who contracted tuberculosis while in the army defending their country."

"Gov. Hobby, Maj. John C. Towne and a large number of well known Texans are banding every effort to collect this fund and they will wage a state-wide drive from November 15 to 25 inclusive to get the necessary money. The local draft board have been impressed into service and are expected to serve with the same devotion to duty as they did during the war. They realize it is the last big battle before the armistice for, therefore, they are giving their service unstintingly."

"It is not that the federal government is refusing to take care of the Texas boys, but the government can find no hospitals in Texas to accommodate them and is sending them to hospitals in Louisiana and other undesirable climates. Texas are asked to provide the hospitals and the United States will do the rest by paying $1 per day for each soldier's maintenance and give free medical and hospital treatment. There are more than 4000 soldiers of Texas who have developed the dreaded white plague, its cure is slow and the cost is high. Contributions during the drive will do it."

Dr. Altendorf Reveals Further Secrets of German Operation in Mexico.

allow him to take the code book in his hands. Such had been his instructions when he was entrusted with that important volume, and just as all the trouble he had got himself into by violating orders, and so on and so forth, while wearing by the physical effort of maintaining a sympathetic interest in the words of Hadenmeyer, I did not deny a pardonable pride in the fact that my word after such brief acquaintance, had been implicitly accepted in preference to that of a proved German agent. For, remember that it was not the evidence that Schwartz was a thief that got him into disfavor, for such things are lightly regarded in a land where everybody who gets the chance is a grafter, but my assertion that he was an American spy.

Breakfasts with banglows. The trip from Guaymas to San Blas was made by train, and after their big battle, described in a previous installment, were now quiet and traffic was temporarily suspended. I had written to the charming Maria Wilkinson that I was coming and she was waiting for me when I reached her hotel at Guaymas at 4:30 in the morning. It was now December 13, 1911, and as the next morning I was to leave for Mexico, I had several days time on my hands. After such success on my previous fishing excursion with Wilkinson, I had resolved to try my luck again and see what I could find out that might be useful to the American military intelligence department.

Maria, Mrs. Cohen, the landlady, and I breakfasted together. Maria announced that she was going to San Blas January 1, on another smuggling excursion, and that she had already been provided with a passport by the border by the superintendent of the road. She had been requested to bring in as many revolvers as she could slide could sell them at a good price to the Mexicans.

I tried to persuade her not to go, holding out the prospect of the prospect of our marriage on my return from Mexico City; for I knew she was clever at the smuggling game, and if I could prevail upon her to abandon it, that would be no small gain. But Maria's motto was "business before pleasure" and she would not be turned from her path.

For three days I lingered in Guaymas, spending a great deal of time with Maria Wilkinson. In the course of which we saw numerous Germans, resulting in a vast deal of talk about German affairs and Guaymas plans for the regeneration of the world as soon as the world was beaten into a proper degree of submission. Maria, the landlady, and I breakfasted together. Maria announced that she was going to San Blas January 1, on another smuggling excursion, and that she had already been provided with a passport by the border by the superintendent of the road. She had been requested to bring in as many revolvers as she could slide could sell them at a good price to the Mexicans.

Another ingredient of explosive action was collected in the same way, employing German money to buy in small quantities in the name of Mexican concerns. All of these pretended Mexican houses were duly reported to the military intelligence department. It is too bad that I cannot take the reader into my confidence regarding the methods employed in forwarding reports from a hostile country, but when I showed my interest in writing these memoirs I was requested by the department not to divulge the department's methods of operation.

There were still three days before there would be a steamer to Manzanillo, so still in the guise of a German agent, wearing the Mexican uniform, I went fishing for information in the troubled waters of Manzanillo.

Germany Day T. S. Naps. One of my earliest hints proved to be an item of considerable importance. This was the discovery that the Germans were buying maps of the United States from a Mexican printer, to Mexico's national map.

This sudden interest in the study of American geography was explained when I got back to the city. The Germans were proved to have the locations of munition manufacturing plants, fuel warehouses, and other sensitive information carefully

SALE OF STEAMERS FISHED.

In the course of desultory gossip about Ugar revealed that the pretended sale of three small German coasting steamers on the west coast of Mexico, the Komet, Josefina and Pinotepe, to a Mexican company was pure bunk, that the steamers were still operated as usual by their former owners.

One evening I went to the Casino Aleman, a German club in Manzanillo, with consul Ugar, where I was introduced to the German vice consul, one Burmeister. Of course, we had some beer.

In the course of the beer and conversation the vice consul brought up the subject of Tepic. This was done by Dr. Von Sebeck had said there was a German wireless station; so while pretending no more than a polite interest I minutely picked up news.

In due time a lot of details came out that confirmed my resolve to explore the German mysteries at Tepic at the earliest opportunity. It appears that Burmeister's duties as vice consul consisted in collecting and forwarding German subjects to Tepic where they were supposed to give their service to the German Red Cross which was represented as operating a plantation there and forwarding the proceeds to
